Orders had been sent back to Miles' division for a brigade to move forward and protect this reference. The alternative, therefore, was to turn the entreme into this position. Reliable incommendation was obtained of an undefended ford about three miles above the bridge, there being about three miles above the bridge, which was defended. It was therefore determined to the right left the main road.

By referring to the general order it will be nearly ford and the bridge, and after occupying the Warrenson road east of the bridge, to send out a force to destroy the railroad at or near Gamesville, and thus break up the communication between the enemy's forces at Manassas and those in the valley of Virginia, before well and effectively carried out. I immediately balted it, and law lost the next few days, day by day, I should have lost ten thousand of the best armed, hasses by Blackburn's ford to Centerville across the ridge that their position admitted drilled, officered and disciplined troops in the about this ridge, fearing that while we should of, and subsequently taking in person the comalong this ridge, fearing that while we should be in force to the front, and endsavoring to torn the enemy's position, we conserves should be tunned by him by this road; for if he should once obtain possession of this ridge, which overlooks all the country to the west to the foot of he spurs of the Blue Ridge, we should have been irreprieveably cut off and destroyed. I had, therefore, directed this point to be held in this way, the retreating current in torce, and sent an engineer to extamporize some field works to aircogline the position.

The Fauth division (Fanyan's) had not been to the spurs of the position.

Of, and subsequently taking in person the common and of this part of the army, I caused such disposition of the forces which had been added to the strength of the enemy, made us weaker.

In conclusion, I desire to say, in reference to the events of the 21st ult, that the general order for the battle to which I referred, was, with slight modifications, literally conformed to; that the corps were brought over Bull run passed slowly through Centerville to the rear. The enemy followed us from the ford as far some field works to aircogline the position.
